From the Principal

When schools and families work together to support learning, students succeed not just in school, but throughout life.

Parental Involvement Month is celebrated throughout November to recognize the connection parents and families have in their children's education.

Consider boosting your efforts by getting involved, staying informed and continuing to make your child's education a top priority. Research on parent involvement shows that regardless of family income or background, students with involved parents are more likely to succeed on a number of fronts.

- Higher grades, test scores and graduation rates
- Better school attendance
- Increased motivation and self-esteem
- Lower rates of suspension
- Decreased use of drugs and alcohol
- Fewer instances of violent behavior

Six tardies per quarter is considered excessive. (see Student Attendance Policy 2.77) A tardy is any amount of loss of instructional time, including leaving before the 2:40 PM bell.
